Worldwise Global Schools and Gorta-Self Help Africa's "Science For Development" Award

Three young science students from Kildare are set for the trip of a lifetime to Africa, after winning a top award at this year's BT Young Scientist Exhibition.

Ben Conlon, Ruaidhrí Jordan and Mason Scallan from Salesian College in Celbridge won the 'Science for Development Award' at the annual science fair at Dublin's RDS, recently.

The boys' project looked at ways of preserving water in developing countries using a chemical compound called sodium polyacrylate. "It's a substance which can absorb 800 times its own weight in water," said Ruaidhrí about the project. "By absorbing the water it can reduce evaporation, and thus preserve the already scarce water supply in developing countries," he added.

Gorta-Self Help Africa has been running the 'Science for Development' award at the BT Young Scientists event, in collaboration with WorldWise Global Schools and Irish Aid for the past eleven years.

The award encourages students across a broad range of science subjects to consider the challenges affecting the people in the developing world and present potential scientific solutions to these issues.

A government travel bursary provided by WorldWise Global Schools, Irish Aid's Development Education unit, was awarded to the boys to enable them to travel on a schools study visit to sub-Saharan Africa with Gorta-Self Help Africa.

The award has been presented in the past to students who have developed fuel-efficient cooking stoves, solar-powered water purification devices, and devised methods to preserve dairy produce in hot climates. The award is organised annually by Gorta-Self Help Africa with post-primary science teachers across the country.

Foróige's Big Brother Big Sister Programme Galway

Foróige's "Big Brothers Big Sisters" is an internationally recognised youth mentoring programme that forms supportive friendships for young people inspiring them to brighter futures.

Big Brother Big Sister, Galway is being supported by a fabulous new foundation set up by Pat Divilly, a leading youth mental health ambassador. He's passionate about people's ability to achieve their personal goals and his "Project Impact" (set up with some close friends) hopes to change many lives in 2016.

The first event organised by this foundation is called "Heart of Galway Challenge" and aims to raise €12,000 for Big Brother Big Sister in Galway. The funds raised will pay to bring 100 young people and their Big Brother/Big Sisters to Lilliput adventure centre with food, activities and accommodation covered.

The 'Heart Of Galway Challenge' takes place on February 14th and involves a 7km walk or jog along Galway's most scenic route with lots of quirky challenges along the way.

It's going to be a great event with refreshments and prize giving in 56 Central afterward. There is a €20 deposit to enter and we want each participant to raise a further €80 all of which go directly to the BBBS.
